Hi Nadim. It has taken a little longer than anticipated to locate any information I still have with respect to the distribution of Hailey's RESP funds.

In regard to your request for any documentation that I may have pertaining to the distribution, I am not at liberty to provide these to you without Hailey's express permission to do so.

I can, however, confirm that as the Executor of the estate of Antje Ghaznavi, I was in contact with Hailey with respect to the distribution of the funds in the RESP account, approximately during the period 2017 to 2021. In this regard, I can also confirm that all of the funds in the RESP that were available to Hailey were sent to her during that period.

With respect to Tara's endeavor to seek further child support from you, you may want to consider consulting a lawyer, if necessary, for further advice/information in this regard. I did some checking on line, and while I cannot confirm if it is accurate, I and am providing the following for your general information:

"How far back can child support be claimed in Canada?

Typically, retroactive support can be awarded back to the date when the recipient parent first notified the payor about the support issue. However, the court generally limits retroactive claims to three years unless there has been blameworthy conduct, such as intentionally avoiding child support payments. Jun 10, 2025"

Regrettably, I cannot help you further at this time.

Linda
